

Best Domestic & Commercial Pest Control Company - London

Nobody wants to see pests and vermin in their property, and for some people this can be a cause of embarrassment. This is where B-Discreet Pest Control come in. They are a full service pest control company, based in Northamptonshire. After their recent recognition in the UK Enterprise Awards 2020, we profiled the firm to discover more about the award-winning services B-Discreet provides.

Established in 2007, B-Discreet is a family-run business which aims to provide short term solutions and long term stability to their clients, by being able to offer pro-active treatments and expert advice. Today, B-Discreet provides a personal service which helps them to maintain strong partnerships and relationships with people, who can trust them to deal with any issues that may arise.

Throughout the years, B-Discreet has worked with diverse range of clients and have the capabilities to deal with issues in any building, whether it be offices, hotels, schools or domestic properties, and deal with all kind of vermin. Many of their

for them and works for their specific circumstances. They will create a bespoke treatment plan that fits around the client's timeframe, and will continue advising the client once the job is finished. For B-Discreet, it is important to manage the client's natural fears, just as much as it is to manage the actual pest problem. One of the key policies of the company is to ignore their competitors and simply focus on what they have to offer.

In addition to this, B-Discreet have a range of qualifications and certifications which show that they can be trusted by their clients. They are a member of National Pest Technicians Association and Safe Contractor and each one of their employees are fully certified through either the NPTA, BPCA or RSPH. On top of this, they are fully trained in being able to handle all manner of different sites. All of their staff treat domestic situations the same way that they would expect in their own homes, and they are sure to respect all inhabitants of the property in the same manner. Any future employees that B-Discreet hires will be provided with the training necessary, not only to meet industry standards, but also the high standards that B-Discreet sets for itself.

The future of B-Discreet is looking forward to the challenge of post COVID19. They suffered a significant setback in early 2019 as the business owner suffered with health problems, but the hard work of the other employees ensured that the health of the company was not compromised. Going forward, the company wants to be able to continue to provide the same level of outstanding service to all of its clients, both future and present.

Overall, B-Discreet have the ability to eliminate a variety of different pests from any location, which makes them a reliable option when you find yourself struggling with intrusive visitors. Their vast experience across multiple industries gives them the best option to provide the best service possible. They are truly worthy of being named as Best Domestic & Commercial Pest Control Company - London
